U.S. Aluminum (USAL) - Your One Stop Shop for High Quality and Installer-Friendly Storefront and Curtain Wall Systems

Commercial, Institutional, and Retail Systems

for Single Story to Mid-Rise Buildings are USAL's Specialty

U.S. Aluminum, a division of C.R. Laurence (CRL), was founded in 1960 and offers the glass and glazing industry a user-friendly and broad range of high-quality storefront and curtain wall products available through a North American network of customer-focused service centers.

Lloyd Talbert, President of CRL, states, " We acquired USAL with the intention of re-establishing them as the industry leader, providing resources that enhance USAL's ability to manufacture, service, and deliver quality products on time. For our storefront materials business, available through our network of service centers, we have increased stock levels and are strategically reviewing adding locations to better service the North American market.

In addition, CRL is working to improve USAL's service and support capabilities for quoting specified projects, actively ramping up the crew of estimators and technical personnel."

George Heflin, Vice President of Sales at USAL, asserts, "USAL's product range was designed with both glass contractors and architects in mind. Service begins at the point of initial customer contact, and we have trained our personnel to listen carefully and fully address each customer's needs." Heflin continues, "This is an installer-friendly product line designed for real-world performance which appeals to architects. For example, our window sill flashing is known as the easiest to work with, plus with its unique pre-punched weep slots, water flows to the outside as it's designed. We offer a well-designed and competitive product range of entrance systems, storefront systems, window wall systems, curtain wall systems, operable windows, blast mitigation systems, hurricane impact systems, and sunshades."

USAL's 11 service center and manufacturing locations are positioned across the U.S. and Canada. Technical and fabrication specialists are on call to answer your questions about any of their systems, and can be reached through their national toll free phone number (800) 262-5151.
